

USER BENEFITS

Online database DEDICATED to machine build field.

Online database with links and information about:

- products and services that are needed for companies which build and operate machines (machinery, equipment, machinery work, cars, vehicles, etc.).
- related products and services, those companies need for proper development of their activities.
- engineering information, information about exhibitions, publications, news, discussion forums and other "resources" needed in the field.

Classification of families of products and services is "professional".

Product categories and subcategories are intuitive and help users to view the information they need with only a few "clicks".

There are not unique products but product categories.

To maintain a proper classification each product category is constantly supervised by the site administrator.

Search is done step by step in a tree structure manner.

You'll be sure that you are in the right place without feeling that you have to go other places.

Search is fast and accurate

To find a list of 10 companies supplying ball bearings in your area which has stock, CAD and PDF documentation on site and possibly a video presentation, is enough to give 3-4 clicks. Otherwise you will have to open 100-150 sites from the search results in search engines by keyword "Ball bearings".

You can stay up to date with news from the field

By visiting novelty entry or newsletter registration (only for the product that you are interested).

You may be aware of exhibitions and fairs in the field

By visiting fairs entry or newsletter registration (only for the product that you are interested).

The site contains filters search by various criteria

Country, region, producer / dealer, technical documentation, CAD, stocks, video presentations on website.

The presentation is in Romanian and English.

Information are more accessible to foreigners.

We record both manufacturing and trading companies from Romania and worldwide.

You can filter between manufacturers and the trade companies.

The website will NOT be loaded with ads

Promotional space will be clearly defined and always the same

The website contains engineering information and forums

The website will become a platform for information and experience exchange

The website will include a job posting/search interface.

You'll be able to see job offers and post file resumes.

The website will include a section dedicated to special offers

Through monthly newsletters you'll receive special offers in your areas of interest.

